

DOING THINGS DIFFERENTLY

We have been inspired by the winemaking heritage of the site that saw New Zealand's first commercially cultivated Sauvignon Blanc come off these very hills back in the 1970's under Bill and Ross Spence's Matua Valley (check out the original Sauvignon Blanc vines on display today outside our restaurant).

Driven to do things a little differently and keep the spirit of innovation alive, we created a range of wine that showcases the best wine regions in the country, but also captures the pioneering nature of New Zealand wine – the search for something new and interesting. The Hunting Lodge wine range evolves with the seasons, allowing you to discover something different each time you visit.
