

“Wine is one of the most civilized things in the world and one of the most natural things of the world that has been brought to the greatest perfection, and it offers a greater range for enjoyment and appreciation than, possibly, any other purely sensory thing.”

19

Chardonnay, Burgundy, France

Chablis, the region north of the Cote d’Or, famous for its steely dry white wines made from Chardonnay. The Rive Droite Chablis from Domaine Testut comes from 45-year-old vines planted in clay and limestone soils. The scope and depth of flavour effortlessly captivates interest by initially showcasing almond croissant, Beurre Bosc pears and barely noticeable toast from the oak barrels.

2017 Dry River

29

Chardonnay, Martinborough, New Zealand

A melee of roasted Chestnuts, chalk and floral notes, are supplemented with biscotti, custard, peach and nectarine. Fresh lime sorbet and lemon blossom lift the aromatics to keep the nose playful. An energetic back palate lifts the wine and allows for a long lingering finish.

2017 Dry River ‘Craighall’

26

Riesling, Martinborough, New Zealand

White peach, ripe floral notes and mineral freshness show a dynamic between power and restraint. Rose’s Lime cordial, hints of nougat with orange and mandarin flesh and fennel and clove spices. A voluptuous densely packed palate with texture and fruit weight makes a real statement. A friendly acidity salivates and draws the attention to the mid palate. Here, orange and grapefruit rind with citrus fruit dominate their space.

2015 René Muré ‘Signature’

23

Riesling, Alsace, France

Beautiful aromas of slate, minerals, citrus, green apple and pith. Very fresh and vibrant on the palate, with a compelling and enticing citrus fruit, driving acidity and a wonderful dry, refreshing finish. Great length, good complexity, this is a terrific, archetypal Alsatian Riesling.

2016 A. Mellot 'La Moussière'

26

Sauvignon Blanc, Sancerre, Loire, France

Biodynamic and hand harvested. Very fresh, bright, with a classically chalky perfumed character that marks the wines of Alphonse Mellot. A simply lovely palate, very fresh and bright, with a slightly perfumed substance but also a very bright and direct acid backbone.

This is fresh, with a very typical feminine perfume.

2016 Château d'Yquem 'Y'

80

110

Sauvignon Blanc / Sémillon, Bordeaux, France

The dry white wine from Chateau d'Yquem. Only 10,000 bottles were produced in 2016 from a blend of 75% Sauvignon Blanc and 25% Semillon. Finely balanced, with a vibrant, lifted and floral nose reinforced with juicy peach and passionfruit. Notes of honeysuckle and a lightly waxy texture are cleansed by refreshing acidity which brings higher toned lemon blossom and grapefruit through. Lightly spicy and smoky, the oak is subtle, integrated and supportive rather than dominant, with a light touch that adds complexity of sweet vanilla and savoury nutmeg. The finish is long, fine and precise.

Deeply coloured and oozing rich dark fruit – a virtual bowl of ripe blackcherries, blackberries topped with a dollop of grandma's homemade plum jam. An opulent interpretation of Marlborough pinot layered with evocative fragrances of cloves, star anise, tea smoke and a hint of gaminess.

The palate shows a wonderful level of elegance with a roundness of red fruit and savoury round tannins.

2016 Schubert 'Marion's Vineyard'

2016 Dry River Pinot Noir, Martinborough, New Zealand The palate shows a youthful intensity with a tendency to speak with great clarity. However, another more serene voice commands the fruit to spread out and surrender to the maze of tannins and juicy acidity that ascends from underneath. They bring a degree of order and longevity through their ripe phenolic compounds. The restrained power and silky, linear tannins are strikingly intricate and invite further examination.	27	37
2016 Craggy Range 'Le Sol' Syrah, Gimblett Gravels, New Zealand Deep red with vibrant purple hue. 2015 Domaine Jean-Michel Gerin      20      29
Syrah, Saint-Joseph, Rhône, France

Leather and scorched fruit lead the way, slowly unfolding to reveal plummy, rich flavors accented by baking spices. This is full bodied and slightly dusty in texture, with a long finish marked by hints of bacon.

2012 Château Musar 'Hochar'      17      23
Blend, Bekaa Valley, Lebanon

The 2012 vintage is a blend of Cinsault (45%), Grenache (25%), Carignan (10%) and Cabernet Sauvignon (10%). Dominated by the sweetness of the Grenache even though it only accounts for a quarter of the overall blend. This wine has a bright crimson colour – a lovely depth of berry fruit on the nose and the palate is full and broad with layers of fruit and spice, cherries, raspberries and liquorice aromatics. Lovely purity with depth of fruit and a long, firm finish.

2013 Sartori di Verona, Amarone      22      31
Corvina, Valpolicella, Italy

After harvest the grapes are left to dry in specially ventilated rooms for 100 days followed by minimum of three years in oak casks. Drying the grapes in this way gives a concentrated richness and depth to the wine that is highly sought after. Perfumes are of dried raisins and cocoa. A powerful wine with a lovely balance of ripe tannins and spiced, savoury cherry fruit and cinnamon spice.

| SAUVIGNON BLANC

No vineyard is more than 130 km from the coast on the South Island. The cool, maritime climate of the area allows for a long and steady growing season in which the grapes can ripen and develop a natural balance of acids and sugars. This brings out the flavours (such as passionfruit, gooseberry and greens) and intensity that are so famous for the New Zealand Sauvignon Blanc.

In comparison, our Sauvignon Blanc from France is more mineral with a high acidity and notes of gunflint, citrus and spice.

| CHARDONNAY

Chardonnay originated in Burgundy in eastern France, where it is almost exclusively the only white grape grown. Although small in terms of size, Burgundy is a very complex area and wines are classified by villages or vineyards as opposed to Bordeaux where wines are classified by the producer or chateaux.

Easily explained, Burgundy Chardonnay comes from three areas; Chablis (cool climate with more acidity and gunflint or steel notes), Côte de Beaune (majority of the white Grand Crus comes from this area that produces rich Chardonnays with aromas of flowers and fruits) and Mâconnais (the largest and most southerly region. 85% of the wines produced here is chardonnay. In the centre of the region is Viré Clessé and in the south the most famous, Pully-Fuissé. The warmer climate in the south displays wines with notes of ripe stone fruits, honeysuckle and citrus peel).

In NZ, warmer regions like Hawke's Bay and Gisborne produce more medium-full bodied wines with rich flavours. Marlborough is a very versatile region producing everything from oaked and full bodied to unoaked and dry, while the southern cool climates tend to produce wines with fresh, citrus flavours.

| RIESLING

Riesling was first planted in New Zealand in the 1970s and has thrived in the relatively cool climate. In comparison to Australian Riesling, New Zealand produces lighter and more delicate wines. Australian Rieslings are noted for their oily texture and citrus fruit flavours in their youth and a smooth balance of freshness and acid as they age.

Rieslings from Alsace tend to be mostly very dry with a cleansing acidity. They are thick-bodied wines that coat the palate.

| PINOT GRIS / PINOT GRIGIO

Known as Pinot Gris in France and Pinot Grigio in Italy. In NZ it is made mostly in the French, Alsatian style. Wines from the warmer North Island tends to be more ripe, fat and oily whilst the cooler South Island produces wines with higher acidity.

Italian Pinot Grigio tend to be lighter, crisp wines with floral aromas.

| ROSÉ WINES

Rosé wines are generally made with red grapes, with minimal skin contact, in a white wine style. Rosé wines are very popular in Europe. In some areas like Provence in southern France, they are more popular than white wines. There are many different styles of rosé wines. Rosé wines from Provence, normally made with a blend of Grenache, Cinsault, Mourvèdre and Carignan, have a pale pink color and are fresh, crisp and dry.

New Zealand rosé wines are mostly made with Pinot Noir as the main grape variety and tend to be a little bit more earthy, but still elegant.

| PINOT NOIR

Native to Burgundy and notoriously sensitive and difficult to grow. The diversity of climates and soils in NZ offers different styles in each region producing Pinot Noir. Wairarapa and Martinborough produces rich and full Pinot Noirs with flavors of chocolate and plum and long fine tannins. In Marlborough they are fresh with red fruits like raspberries, cherries and plums with a subtle acidity. Central Otago with its mountainous terrain makes each sub-region different in terms of altitude, climate and aspect. Mt Difficulty is situated in one of the driest and warmest areas and produces fuller, more tannic wines with notes of cherries and dark fruits.

In Burgundy, Pinot Noir is the only red grape grown. Côte de Nuits is the second most northern region, after Chablis and, has the highest concentration of Grand Cru vineyards. Côte de Nuits offers full-bodied Pinot Noirs with notes of black currant, cherry, mushrooms and spice. Côte de Beaune, is south of Côte de Nuits and together they form the Cote d'Or. It produces wines with good minerality and acidity and touches of plum, cherrystone and tobacco. Côte Chalonaise produces good value wines, the most famous from the villages of Mercurey, Givry and Montagny. Pinot Noirs from Côte Chalonaise are more rustic with dried fruits and earthy forest notes.

| SYRAH & CÔTES DU RHÔNE BLENDS

Hawke's Bay makes up for 70% of the Syrah production in NZ. They are known for their elegant tannins, complexity and berry, plum and pepper flavours.

By itself the Syrah of Rhône is robust with notes of pepper, black currant, spices, smoke, tobacco and violet. In the northern parts of Rhône, Syrah is the only red grape allowed to grow. In Côte Rôtie, it is often blended with up to 20% of the white grape Viognier, which gives the wine a hint of floral aromas and softer tannins.

In southern Rhône, the lighter Grenache grape is the most commonly grown. To make it more balanced and complex, it is generally blended with the fruitier Syrah and more powerful Mourvèdre (GSM). In the Châteauneuf-du-Pape area, a small part of white grapes is also allowed in the blend.

Shiraz is Australia's most widely grown variety. The country is famous for producing big and bold wines with pepper, black fruit and spice notes.

BORDEAUX BLENDS, CABERNET SAUVIGNON AND MERLOT

Bordeaux can be divided in two areas, the 'Left Bank' and 'Right Bank', referring to where they are situated on the Gironde river. The left bank is home to the Crus Classés de 1855, where the top wines from Châteaux in the areas of Pauillac, Saint-Julien, Saint-Estephe, Margaux and Pessac-Leognan are ranked from first growth (1er Cru) to fifth growth (5eme Cru). Cabernet Sauvignon is the main grape variety grown and then typically blended with Merlot, Cabernet Franc, Malbec and/or Petit Verdot. The wines on the left bank are known to be bold and tannic and very suitable for aging.

The right bank, with sub-regions of Saint-Émilion and Pomerol, is not part of the 1855 classification. Wines from Pomerol are not classified at all, but Château Petrus is unofficially counted as one of the First Growths. Saint-Émilion has their own Grand Cru classification. The soil on the right bank is mostly red clay that is ideal for growing Merlot, but also Cabernet Franc and Cabernet Sauvignon. With Merlot as the main grape variety, right bank wines are generally softer with more refined tannins.

In New Zealand, over 80% of the Bordeaux style wines comes from Hawke's Bay. The reason being it is one of the few areas suitable for growing Cabernet Sauvignon. However, the production of Bordeaux style wines has steadily declined to allow the growth of grapes more popular and favourable to grow in NZ conditions.
